General

I recommend our guests travel light, as I have everything needed here - you just need to bring your dog/s, their food & treats a lead and harness, and a blanket that smells of home. When they arrive for a pawliday, their harness is removed (only used in car for travelling) and I replace it with a soft collar fitted with a Pawfolk Ltd I.D tag, and also a GPS Airtag for added security and peace of mind.

Meals and Treats

I always feed dogs under supervision and can separate if required. Iris, Davy and Dolly are fed around 0700h and then again at 1700h. You must supply your own food and treats and inform me of any special instructions or dietary needs (this should be completed on our Pawfile form). I can accommodate frozen raw diets only, but, because of space limitations, I will only take one dog on such a diet at a time. I provide regularly cleaned and sterilized feeding and drinking bowls and ensure there is clean and ample water available at all times.

Everything Else!

Our guests have freedom to roam (within our daily routine) and find their space and place in the pack. I've created different areas for them to find - both indoors and out; to feel safe in and make their own: higher beds (smaller dogs love that); open crates tucked away, mimicking private dens that are still in earshot and smelling distance of the rest of the pack; big beds; small beds; covered sofas; cooling mats - generally lots of VIPup areas to choose from. For places out of my view, I have Pawcams watching them so I can check in without disturbing anyone. All rooms and stair access points are gated to provide additional separate spaces, especially for private overnight resting. I also provide towels and poobags, so no need to bring.
